Armful Wins Race at Narragansett

Pacifism Invites Destruction

ALL Americans want peace. But a policy of pacifism does not mean peace. It means war. Unpreparedness invites attack and in armed conflict the unprepared are destroyed.

The world is now witnessing with dismay the absorption of China by Japan. In a short time a small vigorous nation of sixty-five million people will have absorbed an immense decadent nation of four hundred million.

Then China, the greatest unit of population in the world, will be owned, dominated, directed and employed by its master, Japan. How will these four hundred million people plus the sixty-five million of Japan be employed?

For purposes of the further conquest of Asia no doubt, and eventually as a menace to the supremacy of the white races.

THE immediate question, however, is how can a nation of four hundred million be absorbed and appropriated by a nation of sixty-five million. The answer is simple. China is an example of the results of pacifism and communism.

China is exhausted by class conflict within. China has no adequate defense against hostility from without.

Every animal has some means of defense. If it has not it is the prey of other animals.

MAIL HOLDUP STORY TOLD FIRST TIME

Details of the actual crime for the first time were told today in federal court at the $129,000 Fall River mail robbery trial by Herbert H. Hornstein, defendant, who turned government witness.

The Brown University graduate who pleaded guilty last Friday to the mail robbery, testified that he was the driver of the getaway truck. He said he was to have been on the scene to supervise the job, but failed to arrive in time because of a delay.

On the day of the crime, Hornstein remained in a Providence drugstore awaiting a call to drive Fisher in case of a bungled job, he said.

There was no mistake and they were successful.

CURLEY ASKS 35 PER CENT BOND ISSUE

In his first personal appearance before the legislature, Governor Curley placed before the body a $35,000,000 bond issue.

The program will be financed by a state bond issue, and Governor Curley is hopeful the Federal government will contribute an equal amount, or more, for the employment of citizens of the Commonwealth.

Governor Curley said: "I am submitting for your consideration a plan, for your favorable action, a construction program which in my judgment is not only essential to the proper conduct of important departments of the state government, but vital as a means of providing work and wages for the unemployed citizens of the Commonwealth."

VARIOUS PROJECTS

The program contemplates the expenditure of the sum of $35,000,000 to be allocated as heretofore:

"Public works, $15,000,000."
"Public buildings, $10,000,000."
"Correction, $5,000,000."
"Education, $1,000,000 to veterans, all war, $2,500,000."
"State home addition, $1,500,000."
"Public welfare, $1,000,000."
"General relief, $1,000,000."
"Public health, $500,000."
"Total, $35,000,000."

The item for public works is $12,000,000, of which $2,000,000 is for Chapter 81 and Chapter 90 works, to be expended in such cities and towns as are now entitled to share in the expenditures provided under Chapter 81 and Chapter 90 of the General Laws.

FOR WORK AND WAGES

Chapter 81 of the General Laws, which is the act to amend the act of 1929, Chapter 81, which provides for the employment of the unemployed, should properly be considered in connection with the present bill, which is a direct contribution by the state as a means of reducing the public welfare requirements, which today are taking not only the indignity but the resources of all officials charged with municipal administration.

The sum of $4,000,000 is allocated to the installation of sidewalks with edgewise alongside existing state highways. This is a new purpose, first, and of primary importance, since the present law provides for the employment of persons living in substantially every city and town where a state highway has been constructed without sidewalks.

Libby Baby Guarded In Maine

Libby Holman, former Broadway star, is being guarded in Maine.

Kennepunk, Me., July 1.—Libby Holman, former Broadway star, is being guarded in Maine.

The former singer occupies a simple cottage on the waterfront and goes from there daily to her apartment, where she will make her stage appearance in a part in the play, "Accent on Youth," to be presented by Walter Hartwig's Manhattan Repertory Company at the Ogunquit playhouse, a summer theater.

Hartwig today predicted success for Miss Holman in her role. He said she had rehearsed well and had become popular with other members of the company and with the audience.

She expects to remain with the company for the season and to appear later in the month with Ethel Barrymore in "The Sign of the Cross."

PROB KILLED, BARN TANK BLAST

Salem, July 1.—Edward Hagan, 11, of Boston street was killed today and several other children were slightly injured when a 1000-gallon gasoline tank exploded in a barn.

The boy, son of Mr. Frank Hagan, a widow, was blown 50 feet, through a wooden fence, his clothing afire, after he had been thrown from a lighted firecracker in the tank, in the yard of the Federal Machine Company.

In the explosion, which wrecked the tank and which was heard for nearly two miles, windows in nearby houses were shattered and neighbors came running from their homes.

One of these was Edward's mother, who was burned about the hands and arms in attempting to reach the struggling boy.

Other children who were farther from the tank suffered minor injuries and were treated by local physicians.

Mr. Vero Karpis of Bow street said injuries when she ran into the side of a car driven by Fred J. Barry, a fireman.

According to police, the tank was moved to the yard of the Federal Machine Company from Malden only a short time before the explosion.

Fire Chief Joseph Flynn of Salem and State Fire Inspector James Trainor of Salem opened an investigation later.

MOVE STARTS TO PROTEST INCREASE

A new schedule of gas rates, in which the charge for the first 1000 cubic feet is boosted from $1.50 to $2.10, was filed today with the Department of Public Utilities by the Boston Consolidated Gas Co.

Above 1000 feet, the rate is reduced from $1.30 to 90 cents for each additional 1000 feet.

The only ones to benefit by the move to the company, because they pay for heating or refrigeration, are the rate for the initial 1000 cubic feet.

Most majority of families will be in full effect of the 60-cent rate for the initial 1000 cubic feet.

THESE REDUCED

But as the Public Utilities Commission.

The increase was decided upon by the Public Utilities Commission.

The new schedule contains a provision for automatic reduction in gas rates when the cost of gas exceeds a certain amount.

The statement said:

"The new rates in effect for the first year, the 'consolidated' rate, will be a few cents less than the present rates, but will not be as low as the rates proposed by the company."

"The company's earnings have been reduced to such an extent that it is necessary to raise the rates to 100 cents per cubic foot at the current rate of 90 cents per cubic foot, and the new rates will be a few cents less than the present rates, but will not be as low as the rates proposed by the company."

The new general rate of $2.10 for the first 1000 cubic feet, and 90 cents for each additional 1000 cubic feet, for the next 100 cubic feet, and 80 cents for each 100 cubic feet.

PARTY GIRL' BARES STORY OF DICKINSON SLAYING

LORETTA 'BOBBIE' JACKSON CONFESSES THREE VERSIONS OF CRIME

The following statement, made to Detroit police by Loretta ("Bobbie") Jackson, describing the party which resulted in the death of Howard Carter Dickinson, New York attorney, is presented herewith by Universal Service.

By LORETTA ("BOBBIE") JACKSON

Detroit, July 1.—My sister Florence, Ferris and I had dinner at the Book-Cadillac Tuesday night. Dickinson came over to our table and offered to buy us a drink. We accepted and he bought us the drinks.

Then we went up to Dickinson's room, while Ferris went out. Later we left Dickinson and went to Ferris' room in the Detroit Hotel.

Wednesday night Dickinson came to the Detroit Hotel. We were in Ferris' room, but Ferris had gone out. Jean Miller later came in and said the four of us drank some whiskey. Ferris came back about 9:30 and we drank two more quarts of whiskey.

Then we went for a ride to Rouge Park. Ferris and I were in the front seat and Dickinson was in the back seat with the other girls. We drove around for a while and then Ferris said: "Everybody get out."

We got out and went back of the car. There were some shots, but I don't remember how many shots there were. When we got back to the car, we knew Dickinson was dead, so we went back to our apartment at 72 E. Adams street.

Ferris went to his hotel and checked out. He came back after we and we drove to Chicago. We got a room on the South Side. Then we decided to split up and go to Fort Wayne. Ferris was going to meet us there. He met us and then I sent a telegram to another.

Killer Confesses He Shot 'Party' Hughes' Nephew on 'Party'

By Associated Press

Detroit, July 1.—Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea announced today that no charges will be placed against three companions of William Lee Ferris, 26-year-old confessed slayer of Howard Carter Dickinson, New York attorney.

The announcement was made after the prosecutor and police officials had questioned Ferris and the girls for more than 24 hours in an effort to compromise the conflicting versions of an all-night party which left Dickinson dead on a lonely park road, a bullet through his head and another through his body.

The three girls Jean Miller, Loretta Jackson and Florence Jackson, arrested in a Fort Wayne (Ind.) hotel with Ferris, will be detained only as material witnesses, McCrea said.

Meanwhile, detectives admittedly bewildered by the bizarre accounts of Ferris and his companions gave thought to developing a motive from Ferris' stories.

One story was that Dickinson drove a gun as they rolled die in the car and was shot in a scuffle. Another was that Dickinson drew the gun when he (Ferris) stopped the car in the lonely Rouge Park at the girl request.

A third was that Dickinson fired one shot through his head to take his own life, and the second was fired as Ferris grabbed for the weapon.

DETROIT ROBBERY MOTIVE. Detective Chief Fred W. Frank said, although Ferris' stories were too vague and improbable to merit official record, the final account of the slaying had been accepted as a formal one, although it contradicted the previous accounts.

Although his account of the slaying differed, the officials said, Ferris' story contained through the ages meaning that robbery was not the motive.

"The police had said previously they were informed Dickinson, in Detroit to investigate a claim against the William H. Tawney estate, which he represented, carried a large sum of money when he left his hotel at 8 p. m. last Wednesday."

His bullet-pierced body was found at daybreak, Thursday, in Rouge Park. It was several hours before identification was made by Charles Evans Hughes, Jr., New York attorney and cousin of Dickinson, from his watch and other articles in his pockets.

Ferris' account of his meeting with Dickinson and the four of them at the tavern which he preceded the slaying was made public by "Loretta, or Ferris," as he is known.

It was Loretta's anxiety for her children that led to their arrest. She told the police she sent a telegram to her mother in Detroit when Ferris and she were out, and that police intercepted the message and then arrested Ferris and the girls.

Tragedy Laid, Expecting Stork, Wife to Ferris

Detroit, Mich., July 1.—Mrs. Violet Schwartz, pretty, 22-year-old wife of William Schwartz, of Fort Wayne, Ind., told police she and her husband, Dickinson, today expressed faith in her husband and said "I'll be an always."

"My Bill is telling the truth," she said. "Dickinson has been shot accidentally. Why, Bill, just couldn't harm anyone."

"You would understand that, if you knew how good he's been to me."

"We've expecting a baby early in August. Ever since he knew, he has been especially thoughtful. He worried because I was losing my appetite and he was always offering me some special food."

"I hope they'll let me see Bill today. I love him and I always love him. I'm going to do everything I can to help him."

Held as material witnesses in the slaying of Howard Carter Dickinson, nephew of Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, "party girls" Loretta "Bobbie" Jackson, Florence Jackson and Jean Miller insist they do not know how the fatal shooting occurred. They say, however, Dickinson "picked up"

"Bobbie" and Florence at the Book-Cadillac hotel, Detroit, joined them and Jean Miller in a drinking party, and was on an automobile ride with them and William Lee Ferris, murder suspect, at the time of the killing. (Picture from International News Photograph Service.)

Utilities "Death" Battle Tests Roosevelt Power

By International News Service

Washington, July 1.—With excitement so great that presiding officers had difficulty in maintaining order, the House today moved toward a showdown vote on President Roosevelt's demand that utility holding companies be outlawed.

Realizing that for the first time this session there was a strong possibility that the overwhelmingly Democratic House may repudiate Mr. Roosevelt, members kept up a noisy hubbub of conversation and milled in the aisles as speakers took the floor.

The issue—whether the House should restore section 11 of the utility bill, which carries the "death sentence" for giant holding companies—was to be decided on a teller vote in committee of the whole.

Representative Warren (D.) of North Carolina, presiding, murmured the gavel repeatedly. Members, usually restrained in debate, brushed aside rules of decorum as they vented their feelings on the issue.

Representative Andrews (R.) of New York charged that President Roosevelt's conduct was "unbecomingly childish." Representative Charles West, of Washington, declared that the administration threatened to deprive recalcitrant members of political appointments.

Representative Cooper (R.), Ohio, declared that President Roosevelt had changed his mind since he was governor of New York, while Representative May (D.), Kentucky, accused the President of abandoning the Democratic platform of 1932.

Representative Stearns (D.), Alabama; Pierce (D.), Oregon, and others, assailed big utility holding companies as "creatures of Wall Street" and declared that President Roosevelt's leadership rose to new heights in an effort to destroy them.

Victim Hurlled From Bridge

Two thugs set upon Patrick Castello, 24, of Melrose street, South End, at the Wellington bridge in Somerville today, beat him, robbed him of a wrist watch and $8, and tossed him over the bridge.

Castello plunged 25 feet into a shallow swamp of the Mystic river. For an hour he floundered about, entangled by the swamp grass, weak from the beating.

He was seen by Patrolman Patrick Tahan of the metropolitan police, and rescued.

He told the officer that he was coming home from a party and had started out for Boston when he lost his bearings. He then turned around and walked back.

As he was crossing the bridge the attack occurred.

"Fisher told me how the robbery proceeded. He said he followed the mail truck up North Main street, Fall River, and forced the truck to turn down Old street. He was driving the Plymouth car."

"He said the two New York gunmen jumped on the truck and then drove to Somerset, the contents removed and put in the trunk. He said Carl had been in the truck. They all jumped into the hide with the mail."

"I am not alarmed by the innuendoes and published stories regarding my conduct of the office. My skirts are clean."

"I do not know when my successor, William E. Clark, will arrive to take up the work as supervisor."

The chain store for which Miss Provencher was to have acted as manager was closed today and all steps were taken to protect new heights in an effort to destroy them.

young gentlemen say "I declare to all enemies of Hitler youth that the Fuehrer is our faith and national Socialism is our religion."

A dog barked violently at two men. One was frightened, the other asked, "don't you know that a barking dog never bites?"

"Yes," said the frightened one, "I know it, and you know it, but does that dog know it?"

A serious question for the Hitler youth gentleman is this: Do the powers above know that every into the Hitler youth movement is equivalent to religious confirmation? If not, prolonged hereafter trouble for Hitler youth perhaps.

Former President Hoover has decided that he will not be a candidate for a second term in 1936, so this must be a cheerful day for President Roosevelt.

Everything in politics is uncertain. In 1931, for instance, Governor Cleveland, early in the political season said, positively, that he would not be a candidate for a third time—and he was nominated.

We should remember that the Jockey counts in every race, a cartoon, showing the 1936 race, with a solemn old-time Republican as mahout on the elephant, and Santa Claus riding the Democratic donkey, spurring him on with a $4,800,000,000 fund, would incline you to bet on the donkey, if you bet.

sects, the reptiles, the highest and lowest forms of life, must provide means of defense or perish.

Human beings are not different. Nations are not different.

Think what the criminals would do to our cities if we did not have a police force.

Think what thieves and murderers would do to ourselves and our families if we did not have police protection.

Think of the destruction of fire to our property and to our lives if we did not have fire fighters to defend us from it.

MERELY disapproving of crime does not eliminate it. Merely hoping against fire does not prevent it. Merely denouncing war does not end it.

We must defend ourselves against evils. We must have the means of defense.

If we are divided among ourselves— If we are the victims of internal conflicts— If we fail to realize that "in union there is strength," and that preparedness is the "most effectual means of preventing war," we will insure destruction.

If we are to protect our people, our country, our civilization, ourselves, we must have the means of defense.

Otherwise we will go the way of pacifist China. Otherwise we will lose all that we possess and all that we have been able to contribute to the progress of the world.

FEELING HOT AND STICKY? HERE'S ONE REMEDY!

A crowd of 200,000 is a lot of people! Here's just a corner of a throng of that size, cooling off on the sands of Revere Beach. Let Old Sol glare as ferociously as he pleases. The chill green waters of the North Atlantic are an antidote for the worst of heat bombardments. Perhaps you can identify yourself or some of your friends in this picture, taken Sunday by a Boston Evening American staff photographer. Next week-end, the cameraman will be! At Nantasket, snapping bathers there. Watch out for him! Most of these folks at Revere seem unconscious of the fact that they are being photographed. Observe how graphic a cross-section of humanity the panorama shows.

Old and young, thin and not so thin, in rented suits and in the latest beach wear from the sports shops, they're all among those present. (Picture by Boston Evening American Staff Photographer.)

Time Fliers Down Tonight

Meridian, Miss., July 1.—The Key brothers, Fred and Al, holders of the official endurance flight record, resumed their ground crew today, they expect to lead their endurance plane, the "Old Miss," by "6:30 o'clock" tonight.

At Key, talking with his father over short wave radio, said the descent would be made after the unofficial record of 847 hours, 28 minutes and 30 seconds, set by Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brien at St. Louis in 1930, had been broken.

That record was equaled at noon (C. S. T.) today.

"After careful checkup and inspection of the plane," Al said, "it seems crystallization has begun to set in, due to constant vibration on a number of wires and small frames."

"Having undeposited World's Air record in the bag, we deem it unwise to remain in the air any longer than this afternoon."

Quilt Exhibit Reveals Skill of Women of Moose

By BETTY DI PESA
"Practicality," is the by-word of the women of the Loyal Order of the Moose.

And proof of that fact that he found in the quilt exhibit which is being shown at the Hotel Statler during the visit of the Moose in Boston.

This quilt exhibit is the handiwork of the wives and daughters of the Moose.

Instead of the youth of the order being taught the Charleston, Carrioco or 400, they are shown how to make a quilt.

It all originated with "Moose Heart," home for women and children dependents of deceased members of the Moose, located outside of Chicago.

This home educates, both socially and vocationally.

Quilt 100 years old are on display at the Statler today, as well as those made by the Modern Miss. Mrs. James J. Davis, wife of the senator, has on exhibition a blanket made by her great-grandmother for her dolls.

There are old-fashioned crazy quilts of silk, pieced quilts, appliqued quilts, quilts of necktie patterns, youn quilts, etc.

So, if any young man wants an old-fashioned quilt for a wife, he'd better be looking among the ladies of the Moose.

The church remained closed yesterday. The Rev. Mr. Glenn asked the Presbyterian minister to pray for Volckmann's parents.

The Hearst Papers Stand for Americanism and Genuine Democracy

SOME un-American disturbers and malcontents, advocates of Communism or Fascism or some other form of foreign despotism, are agitating for the boycott of the Hearst papers, because of our militant Americanism.

We thank them for the compliment to the patriotism of our publications, and want to aid them in their dull-minded endeavor to publicize our American principles.

We state here, with all the force and frankness possible, our unalterable policies, so that those who desire to agitate against our principles and our publications may have ample material for their crusade.

The Hearst papers are American papers published for the American people.

They support the American system of government, the American Constitution, American institutions and American ideals.

They labor to maintain the American standard of living.

They are opposed to the various forms of tyranny which our American forefathers came to this country to avoid.

They are in favor of American independence, American rights and liberties, free speech, free assembly, freedom of thought and action, and freedom of the press.

They are advocates of rugged individualism, and of the industrial independence and enterprise which have made our country the richest and greatest in the world.

They are opposed to paternalism in government.

They believe with Thomas Jefferson that the least governed country is the best governed country, particularly in view of recent political experiments; which have done nothing but prove that the most governed country is the worst governed country.

They are opposed to Communism, Fascism or any form of despotism.

They are opposed to intolerance, as well as to fanaticism.

They are opposed to race prejudice and to class conflict.

They believe in opportunity for all and equality before the law.

They believe in the capitalistic system, so-called, which is the only practical economic system of proven worth and with adequate reward for merit.

They believe in compensation in proportion to service rendered, and in no limit to the extent of the compensation if the extent of the service is equally great.

They believe in the creation of wealth through industry and the distribution of wealth in wages.

They believe that the attempt to distribute wealth through theft is not only disastrous morally but economically, and means the ruination of industry and the destruction of all possible prosperity.

They are opposed to any form of politics and economics which endeavor to grade down the most prosperous to the level of the lowest; and they believe ardently in the American system of politics and economics which for a century and a half has successfully raised the lower strata to a nearer level with the upper.

They believe in deportation of alien cranks and criminals, particularly those who came to this country to find freedom of speech and remained to abuse it; who came to this country to gain the liberties which they are unable intelligently to understand and enjoy; who came to this country to find prosperity and who are trying to create in this country the conditions which have brought adversity to other lands.

They are opposed to government by any clique or class.

They believe in genuine democracy, the rule of the majority.

They believe that America should be for Americans and that Americans should be for America.

Those who do not approve of these policies would better not take these papers, because these are the policies which will be adhered to as long as these papers are published.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST

ADVICE on LOVE by BEATRICE FAIRFAX and NELL BRINKLEY

Turn to Music As Solace

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Dear Miss Fairfax:

Though I was born in the United States, went to public schools here and feel myself to be an American, my family haven't changed an inch since they left the old country.

We've all had a dreadful time trying to keep peace in the house and maintain American standards.

I have taught in the public schools and received a salary for singing in a church choir, but my life has been as circumscribed as that of any girl in southeast Europe, where our family came from.

The family succeeded in breaking off my two love affairs with young American men, and when I was in despair from breaking off the last engagement they devoted me into marrying a widower twenty years older than I am. He knew I didn't love him, but was sure I'd learn to in time. Now I never can ask any of my friends to the house, because he has the disgusting habit of going to sleep and snoring after dinner. It's the same if we go to a movie. He sleeps and snores.

Of course, I can't get a divorce on account of this. I have really no grounds for divorce, and my husband declines to let me have one.

DESPERATE
I hope you won't think me unsympathetic, my dear, but I just can't see why a girl who has taught in the public schools, sung in a church choir and had two love affairs with young Americans, allowed herself to be railroaded by her family into a loveless marriage. Yet I know that these things happen, because I've had many letters along similar lines.

It would be swell for a girl if she'd turn back, even at the altar, or decline to say the necessary "I will" rather than make a marriage which is repulsive to her. As you cannot get a divorce, try to build up a life which will be interesting and busy. And remember that making others happy is the best prescription for being happy oneself.

Your musk should be a great resource, and time is the great solvent of all troubles.

BHE MISSES HIS TEASING
DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

We both worked in the same office, and had the prettiest practical joke. Now, I've always been taught that practical jokes are vulgar, and I became very much irritated with you when he teased me. When he teased me by putting an envelope into a pigeon hole and let me find it out, I wouldn't write him. Of course, I threw the envelope and declined the bet.

He did other things which irritated me equally, and I was very much annoyed by him before the office hours. One fine Monday morning, and the professional joke was not there. It seems he had asked to be transferred to another department—and would you believe it?—I then found out I was very much in love with him. I miss his teasing, and life is "vital, fast and unprofitable." I'm crazy to make up with him, but I don't know how to go about it.

CONTINUED MARY.
Write him a gay little note; tell him you find yourself missing his jokes and teasing, and invite him to call.

Have a Heart!

LITTLE CUPID has been standing there ever since the sun was born last night, and is still standing, with the sun rising. He begins to think it is possible to OVER DO even a good thing. At first, little cupid was anxious, wondering whether he could make the young couple, sitting so innocently on the grass, take a real interest in each other. Now he has another anxiety, some sleep for himself.

That is Nell Brinkley's idea in this picture. My idea that he happy young lovers, time does not exist. Solene, old children here tell you, "Time is the only thing we possess." A deeper philosophy, that of little cupid, tells you time is only valuable if you use it well. LOVE IS THE REAL THING.

I am inclined to agree with cupid, if "Love" picks out the right object for its adoration, and if "Love" ends in happy MARRIAGE, and "they live happily ever after." Marriage can always "live happily" if the boy and girl realize that each has chosen himself and herself enough good qualities, enough happiness to keep the other busy throughout the whole of a long life.

Synthetic Sun-Tan

Lotion Gives Lovely Warm Tone To Skin

By JULIE SHELLEY

BETTE DAVIS cannot stay out under the sun unless she is protected by a wide-brimmed hat and a lightweight jacket. A year or two ago she suffered a slight sunstroke, and now she knows what is best for her.

But, on the other hand, Bette, like practically every other smart girl, simply adores vivid shades in her color schemes. And she knows that these summer colors truly require a sun tan to set them off.

Well, she has found the solution, and I am going to pass it on to you. Bette uses a special sun tan makeup with matching powder, and even a heavy detective would never guess that she had been hours under the sun in acquiring that rich, healthy skin tone. Her legs, her arms, her face—all are a most flattering cream-colored color.

The liquid powder base comes in light and deep tan, and its use is so simple that it can be put on in a flash. It is dusted over the face with a soft sponge or cloth.

When it is dry, it should be gently rubbed over with a fine brush. Then, over all, is dusted with a matching shade. The final result is a smooth, lovely complexion—with no uncomfortable hours under the sun necessary.

This summer makeup is in particular vogue this year, for so many women who desire to look fanned during the daylight hours prefer a lily-white complexion in the evening. For it is quite true that dainty wisps of

MAKE THESE GAY, CHARMING CUSHIONS

Bring summer right into your home!

You can, easily—with some gay, cool-to-the-touch cushions here and there.

Choose clear, sun-fast colors and easy-to-laundry materials. Then your cushions will be practical as well as lovely.

We've designed three sun cushions to brighten up your living-room or porch. They're easy to make—just follow these simple directions.

Easy to Make
For the tailored cushion at the top we used green fringes against an unbleached muslin background; yellow fringes on brown lique would be equally attractive. Cut top and bottom the exact size of the cushion to be covered (in this case, 30 x 16 inches), then join with a hand the depth of the cushion. For edges and diagonal trim, stitch on cotton muslin fringes (shown in upholstery department).

The equal, round pillow (14 inches in diameter) was inspired by a charming old quilt called "Dresden Plate." To make it, cut alternating "spokes" of plain blue percale and flower-printed white percale according to dimensions in our diagram. (We allowed 3-16 inches for turning.)

Put the center circle of darker blue. Sew the spokes to it; then stitch the patchwork in a circular plane of light blue percale.

ROLL IT UP and slice it off when dessert time rolls around! "Just rolling along" is a very good practice to observe during the summer—or any time, for the luscious roll, roly-poly, and round loaf-type of dessert is good to look at, good to eat.

Old-fashioned Jolly Roll is probably the parent of our various rolls—remember that tender sponge cake spread with home-made jelly? Vary this. With a little manipulation have a Spice Roll with a custard filling or a Chocolate Roll with whipped cream or boiled icing filling.

If you are fond of chocolate, don't forget that old favorite, which is still a good one—thin chocolate wafers put together and spread over the outside with whipped cream. Let stand in the refrigerator several hours and to serve cut diagonally.

One measuring tip about rolls: You can cut them to make as many or as few servings as you like, by the simple expedient of making slices thick or thin. A roll is always attractive so you may like to bring it in whole and cut it in slices right at the table. Be sure to use a sharp knife to slice the roll, and in some cases you will find that slightly wetting the knife will aid you in the slicing.

YUMMY FRUIT ROLL
3 cup heavy cream
1/2 pound marshmallows, finely cut
1 package dates, finely cut
1/2 pound walnuts, finely cut
3 Graham crackers, finely rolled

Whip cream. Fold in other ingredients except cracker crumbs. Roll the mixture in the marshmallows. Roll in crumbs which have been spread on waxed paper. Chill in refrigerator three to four hours. Slice about one inch thick and before putting in the oven pour over a sauce, made of fruit juice, sugar, and a dash of lemon juice. Bake in a baking pan and before putting in the oven pour over a sauce, made of fruit juice, sugar, and a dash of lemon juice. Bake in a baking pan and before putting in the oven pour over a sauce, made of fruit juice, sugar, and a dash of lemon juice.

Don't overlook the possibilities of baking powder biscuit mixture as a foundation for delicious fruit roly polys. Use it now with the fresh fruits in the market—strawberries, raspberries, blueberries and blackberries. Roll the mixture about 1/2 inch thick and spread with the slightly sweetened fruit. Cut the rolls about one inch thick, place in a baking pan and before putting in the oven pour over a sauce, made of fruit juice, sugar, and a dash of lemon juice. Bake in a baking pan and before putting in the oven pour over a sauce, made of fruit juice, sugar, and a dash of lemon juice.

GLORIFYING THE JELLY ROLL

Tested New Recipes

Everyone likes the thrill of leading out an Ace and dropping the opponent's singleton King.

Sometimes when a play of this type succeeds it is due to pure luck and the Declarer will explain his fine play by saying that he had a hunch that the King was all alone.

At other times it is possible to drop a King simply by following good technique of play.

In the following deal the Declarer refused a finesse because it was the proper play to do so.

He happened to drop a singleton King, which was simply the reward of virtue.

South, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

DESERT HERITAGE

A Story--Out of the Foreign Legion--
By the Author of Beau Geste

By P. C. Wren

Spanish Maine, Tricked by Fourth Woman, Plots to Secure His Revenge

The Story So Far:

CORNELIA VANBRUGH, passenger on the S.S. Amazon, returning from South America to England, is having the happiest time of her life.
A fellow-passenger, Sir Harry Vane, prominent young Englishman, has fallen in love with her and they plan to marry.
But at Bermuda Manuel ("Spanish") Maine boards the ship and wrecks her plans. He recognizes Cornelia as something out of his childhood past and threatens to expose her, unless she pays heavily.
Her brother, Otis Vanbrugh, who has never heard of Maine before, was him to get at the bottom of his story. Maine tells him an amazing story of his life, which has covered the world and in which he claims Cornelia is involved. Twice he has been in the Foreign Legion, twice escaped, with a long series of crimes behind him.
Twice he has had a great fortune in his grasp, only to lose it because of a woman. In his last Legion escapade he had buried a treasure in a deserted well in the Sahara, only to be separated from it by a life-form in the sand colony of Maroni in South America.
His whole life is now centered on getting this treasure, which will keep him forever in luxury. Things look hopeless until he becomes friendly with Miguel Braganza, another Spanish convict, with whom he has been friends since childhood.
Together they make a daring escape from Maroni, largely through Miguel's skill and bravery.
The convict steals a canoe from the Indians. They struggle on until Miguel is made dangerously sick by a poison thorn.
Spanish Maine tells him of his life, which has covered the world and in which he claims Cornelia is involved. Twice he has been in the Foreign Legion, twice escaped, with a long series of crimes behind him.
Spanish continues his story:

AFTER a visit to Cadix I went on to Algiers, and thence to the place I considered most suitable for the start of my desert journey to Ain Mendil.

This was the town of Bouzen, a last outpost of real civilization, an excellent spot for my purpose, inasmuch as it was near the place of the desert I wished to penetrate; was a good place for the sitting-out of my caravan; and, being a tourist-resort and garrison-town, a likely and suitable place for the type of individual I was impersonating.

In Bouzen I would be a tourist, a tripper, a sort of amateur explorer, intending to see something of the genuine desert, wishing to get away from civilization, and dallying with the idea of actually crossing the Sahara.

There was no detachment of the Legion at Bouzen, and no Penal Battalion or travaux publics gang, within a hundred miles.

It was utterly improbable that I should encounter anybody who had ever set eyes on me; and almost impossible that, in the event of my doing so, I should be recognized.

The clean-shaven wealthy American tourist, Elmer J. Harrison, was as different from the heavily bearded Spaniard, Manuel Maine, as he was from the English boy, William Jackson, who had deserted from the Legion so many years ago.

No, the danger of recognition was absolutely negligible. But there was another danger in Bouzen, grave, imminent and terrible; the danger that had

Yes, I fell all right, whether I was in love or not. I admit it--with shame. But as I was really was unique. She was half European, I believe. Her features being beautiful beyond description, she was really accomplished, clever, witty, charming, fascinating and... as she said... faintly, sweet.
"Good Lord! I had nearly said 'sweet'!"
Anyhow, she looked it. And she had travelled and moved in good society, for she'd risen to the very top of her profession, and been taken up by distinguished managers, governors, high officials of the Colonial Service of France. She had been taken to Paris and there she had met wealthy men who had taken her to Berlin, Rome, Athens, Madrid, New York. Yes, she knew her world; and at times she had, well, caressed, fingered, seen of the grand monde as well as a queen of the demi-monde.
YOU'D wonder she hadn't left Bouzen and Algiers for good. You'd wonder, indeed, that she had not married--married a title, not a crown--but none of these things lasted long.

And why? Simply because she misinterpreted an insatiable hatred for Europeans and particularly for Anglo-Saxons.
Bitterly she hated all white men beginning with the French, but she had an especial boiling for English-speaking people.
There again, you'd wonder that she had so much to do with all these officers and officials, these noblemen, captains, generals, governors, these European millionaires and aristocrats.
You'd wonder why, since she hated them so. Well, it was because her profession and position enabled her to rob them, to rob them, dupe them, skin them alive, ruin them.
Half her affairs ended in tragedy, and her path was strewn with the bodies of suicides, some of whom had shot themselves for love of her, others for hate of themselves, such wrecks she had made of them and their finances.
Well, I am not of those who shoot themselves. I prefer shooting other people.
But she certainly left me among the wreckage in her wake, and not wholly financially-speaking, either. I did not shoot myself, but for two pins I'd have shot her--if I could have got at her--and I swore, then and there, that I'd get even with her, some day.
Three women had done me down and got away with it; and I decided three would be enough. Quite enough.
I promised myself I'd settle with Number Four somewhere, some day, somehow.

Time's whirring! Ha, ha, ha! Yes, one bright morning I woke to find that she'd gone.
And all my money had gone with her, the last of it, that is to say the sum I'd set aside as sufficient to enable me to go and get my treasure, take it to Europe, and dispose of it.
Of course, I'd spent a great deal on her, one way and another, but with the satisfying, comforting thought that it belonged to Le Miller, and like a fool, I'd told her that I was soon going off with my caravan into the desert.
For some reason, this seemed to snag her and upset her tremendously.

I hoped and thought for the moment that it was jealousy, until she said in her queer pretty English--
"Ah! Main, out! Ooh, just! Out into the desert! Just like he did with my mother... Am you think you take me too? Main me! for you and then leave me!"
Spanish in the next installment tells how the "Fourth Woman" accomplishes his ruin. She leaves him penniless, desperate.

Dan O'Mahoney

By JACK CONWAY

(Pinch hitting for Austin Lake, who is on vacation)
WALTER O'HARA has a penthouse atop the clubhouse of his swanky Narragansett Park race track. There are Oriental rugs on the floor, expensive furniture and a bar in one of the corners.
You can have anything to drink you wish from beer to champagne if you happen to be a guest of the boss of Narragansett Park, or even if you merely know somebody who once shook the hand of somebody who knows O'Hara.
If you wish to interview O'Hara, you will not find him in his penthouse.
You have a better chance of locating him on the roof of the clubhouse where he watches the races through a pair of powerful glasses or down near the finish line.
With the aid of Billy Ames and Brother Neal O'Hara, capable columnist and radio artist, I found Walter in his favorite perch.
"I'll make you a little bet," said Walter as he tore up a flock of losing mutual tickets, "that the mutual handle for the Fourth of July will top $1,000,000."
"We did almost $750,000 last Armistice Day, and we didn't have mutual bookies. I have corrected that condition, and everybody will get the best possible accommodations on the holiday."
I remarked that the addition to the clubhouse and the covered bridges to the grandstand from the clubhouse were good improvements.

"People coming to a race track are entitled to every possible consideration," said O'Hara. "Some people say I have put too much money back into my track. I'm willing to be wrong if by doing so I make my customers a bit more satisfied."

Star Field to Compete in Old Colony Stakes

I ASKED Billy Ames what was the July 4 feature.
"The $5000 Old Colony stakes," replied Ames. "In the 64 nominations are listed the best two-year-olds in training."

"Included in the list are Brookmende's Stable Delphinium, winner of the national steeplechase at Belmont Park, and Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Postage Due.
"Then there are the highly regarded Saracen; the Wheatley Stable's Seabiscuit, which holds the five furlong track record here; Mrs. Silas B. Mason's Valevictorian; Mr. Nightingale's Billie Bano, Brannanville Farm's speedy Challenge; Janon Fisher's Swashbuckler, and Robert Robinson's Bright and Early."

Discovery to Run at Narragansett Saturday

THE GREAT Discovery, which won at Detroit last Saturday by 30 lengths, is expected to be a starter in the $10,000 Rhode Island Handicap on Saturday, according to Ames. Identify, another Alfred G. Vanderbilt horse, has also been entered for this race.

The Vanderbilt horses will find plenty of competition from Time Supply, winner of the Narragansett Special last season; the Best Agriana, Dark Hope and other famous horses.
Another race had finished. Walter O'Hara was tearing up some more losing tickets.

"Walter is one of the best customers the mutual machines have," said Ames laughingly.

"I'll have to go back to Dave Wilson's selections and get a winner," said O'Hara good naturedly. "At least I never bet money I cannot afford to lose. I'm for more $50 betting."

I left O'Hara standing on the roof waiting for the start of the next race. Narragansett Park is his toy, and he spends money on it like a man will on his hobby.

He has tried to make Narragansett Park the best looking race track in the country, and I believe he has succeeded.

Judge Frank J. Bryan Digs in at Suffolk Downs

DAVE WILSON, of the Baltimore Wilsons, of the good old State of Maryland, tells me Judge Frank J. Bryan has dug in at Suffolk Downs in East Boston.

The Judge is one of the most fearless race officials in the country. He has been named secretary for the coming meeting at Suffolk Downs.

While acting as presiding steward at Pimlico, Judge Bryan ruled the great Earl Sande off the track for rough riding in the Futurity.

Bryan was presiding steward at Belmont Park, Joseph E. Widener's track, the day of a big race.

The Widener horse finished in front, and the proud owner led his horse back to the judges' stand.

"I'm sorry, Joe, but I'm going to take it away from you," said Bryan.

He then disqualified the Widener horse.

Dan O'Mahoney Has Taken New York by Storm

DAN O'MAHONEY, Irish champion and recent conqueror of Jim London, has taken New York by storm. He spent the week-end in Manhattan and was accorded a tremendous reception every place he went.

An Irish champion has always been the most popular figure in sports. It isn't necessary for Dan to offer any arguments to prove he is 100 per cent Irish. He was born in the village of Ballydeob in West Cork, Ireland.

He has a rich Irish brogue which Paul Bowser has always maintained was worth a million dollars.

When Governor Curley met Dan for the first time some months ago, he looked at the young Irishman quizzically.

"Not an Irishman from Newark?" asked the governor.

Danno then spoke, and the governor smiled.

"You have proved your own case," said the governor.

"You are the real thing."

O'Mahoney will wrestle Chief Little Wolf at the great Milk Fund show at the Yankee Stadium on July 8.

Chief Little Wolf has been the wrestling sensation of the Pacific Coast. Among other things he has defeated "Mam Mountain" Deas.

It was originally planned to have O'Mahoney and Chief Little Wolf clash in Los Angeles in the fall. Then Danno upset London and wrecked the Milk Fund program. Now he saves the situation by agreeing to meet Chief Little Wolf in New York for the Milk Fund.

Braddock Must Fight in December

(Copyright, 1935, By Universal Service)

New York, July 1.—James J. Braddock, world's champion heavyweight prizefighter, will be compelled to defend his title in December, the New York State Boxing Commission announced today.

The announcement is the result of growing public clamor that Joe Louis, Negro who knocked out Primo Carnera the other night, be allowed an early chance at the championship.
Strangely, although Braddock had a great publicity "build-up" before he won the title from Max Baer, and was touted as "Mr. Family Man" and the representative unemployed American because he had been on "work relief," passed into inappreciation in boxing circles and among fight fans here immediately after Louis' spectacular victory.

Four out of 10 persons asked in a test survey, were unable to give the champion's full name. Most of them, however, knew all about Joe Louis.

It is generally believed by sports writers and the public that a year will pass before Louis is allowed to fight for the championship. Inasmuch as Louis has sprung into popularity with a speed even greater than that of Jack Dempsey, after Jack's victory over the other giant, Jess Willard, boxing fans are clamoring for an early match between Louis and the champion.

They ask:

"Why does Joe Louis have to wait a year for his chance?"

Braddock has indicated that he does not intend to fight until next June, keeping his title safe for the profits from radio, movie, vaudeville and testimonials.

An official close to General John J. Shahan, chairman of the commission, who asked that his name not be used, said:

"We'll give Braddock just six weeks' delay. That's fair break for him."

Then he will have to defend his title. If he fails to do so voluntarily, we will name the outstanding heavyweight as the contender, and order Braddock to fight him.

The official, somewhat irate, added:

"We aren't going to let him sit around for a year. If he's wise he'll announce he plans to fight a good man—Schmeling, or Joe Louis, in December. And he'll knock a good man, not any pushover."

Weiland Back With Bruins

Conney Weiland was back in the Bruins fold today.
The popular little center ice player comes here with Walter Burwell from Detroit in exchange for Merv Barry and Art Givoux.

Weiland, in 1930 with the Bruins, set up a league record for scoring when the Bruins won the world championship.

He and Max Kaminsky, another Bruin, are rated as the two best play-making center ice men in the league.

Burwell is a promising young defenseman. He came so fast last year that he was playing regularly at the side of the season.

FLOYD GIBBONS' PAGE OF THRILLS AND MYSTERY

Sees Comrade 'Slain'

Boston Man Tells of Terror by 'Afghan' in Tent

HELLO, EVERYBODY—

Get a tight grip on your nerves, boys and girls, and hold on to your hair because today we are going adventure hunting in the mysterious, blood-soaked land of India. Thomas McGrath of 11 Lawrence street, Boston, is the man to blame if you get a sudden heart attack while reading this, so don't blame me.

Back in '97 and '98 Tom was a "Tommy" in the British Army on service in India. He was a member of the Third Brigade, Third Field Force, stationed on the Northwest frontier of India and his brigade was operating against the Afghans. Now your Afghan is about as brave and fearless a tribesman as you can find anywhere, but his ideas of bravery and ours are slightly different.

For instance, an Afghan's idea of supreme heroism is to sneak into the tents of the enemy and cut as many throats as he can before he gets his own cut.

And that's exactly the sort of warfare they were waging on Tom's outfit.

Night after night a lone sentry would be silently knifed at his post of duty.

Then a scream in the night would startle the sleeping camp and when the commotion had died down two or three soldiers would be found dead in their beds—slaughtered as they slept.

The low pitched tents accommodated 18 men, and the men, Tom says, slept fully equipped for protection against these raids. But still the raids went on.

One particularly quiet night, Tom says, as he lay in his cot, wishing he were back home, he was horrified to see the tent flap slowly open and a big, bearded Afghan step noiselessly inside and stand motionless like a bronze statue, listening.

Tom's first idea was to scream out a warning to his comrades but to his horror he found that sheer terror had made him powerless to sound the alarm.

Tom was on the opposite side of the tent and says he seemed to be the only one aware of the Afghan's presence. His rifle with bayonet attached was on the floor beside him but he says he was paralyzed with terror and could not move a muscle.

The native raised the long, razor-sharp, curved sword of the country and moved stealthily toward the nearest sleeper.

Tom says he opened his mouth to scream but not a sound came from his dry throat and, as he lay there shaming sleep he saw the long knife rise and fall and heard the frightful death rattle in the throat of a tent-mate!

The soft-footed Afghan moved on to the next cot—stepping between the sleepers as quietly as a cat—and slashing steadily from side to side!

A splash of warm blood on his cheek brought Tom out of his trance of terror but before he could move the Afghan seemed to sense that someone was awake in that blood-soaked tent and he paused and STARED STRAIGHT AT TOM!

Shamming sleep still—but with all his senses alert—Tom says, he peered through half-closed eyes and tried to figure his chances—would he have time to reach his gun before that red knife reached his throat?

He had about decided to risk it when the tent flap moved again and A SECOND AFGHAN STEPPED INSIDE!

The second Afghan's eyes swept the tent quickly—Tom says, Tom's hand with his sword AT HIM and the first native crept quickly toward Tom—his blood-red knife drawn back for the fatal thrust!

At that moment, Tom says, his manhood returned to him. As the native sprang, Tom bounded from bed to meet him—his panty straps shattered the silence of the night—and his hands closed with a death grip on the throat of the murderous Afghan.

Terror must have lent him strength, Tom thinks, because he held on to that throat with a grip of steel—the knife could not reach him—he squeezed and squeezed and screamed and kicked out savagely with his knees at the groin of his enemy—there was a sickening crash.

And that's all Tom remembers of the fight. The next thing he knew he heard voices somewhere in the distance. One of the voices sounded like that of the medical officer.

"He's coming out of it," the voice was saying.

Tom opened his eyes. He was in the hospital tent. His head was swathed in bandages. A group of his intimates were around his bed. Tom looked at one of them and his eyes nearly popped out of his head.

THE MAN WAS THE FIRST SLEEPER HE HAD SEEN THE AFGHAN KILL!

Tom's eyes wandered from face to face—there was another tentmate he had seen bathed in his own blood—and another! Well, sir, those hard-boiled Tommies didn't keep Tom guessing very long. They gave him the bad—or rather good—news at once.

Tom, it seems, had suddenly leaped—in the quiet of the night—the man in the next cot to him and it had taken the whole army to get his hands off HIS TENT-MATE'S THROAT!

Tom, sir, just a nightmare. They had to give Tom an awful beating to make him let loose but the man he almost choked was recovering in the hospital tent, with him and Tom says the beating was better than a knife in the throat anyway.

Wow! I'm sure glad it was all a dream, Tom. For a minute I thought I might have to send the tent-pole pins to the Afghan! And now, boys and girls, time's up but I'll be back again tomorrow with "Over the Foot-Topps."

It's as easy as just reaching for it—and a heck of a lot more fun.
